English - Dialogue in stories

Using dialogue in a story

Dialogue can be an effective way to describe characters and create actions in text, if used well.

Ways to use dialogue effectively

- What the characters say – can show feelings, thoughts and motivations.
- How the characters say things – verbs instead of said (whispered, bellowed etc) and adverbs (angrily, nervously etc).
- Voice description – adjectives (gentle, warm, bitter etc).
- Actions – as they talk (e.g. raised his sword, thumped the table etc.)
- Actions – decisions they make / things that happen to move on the story.

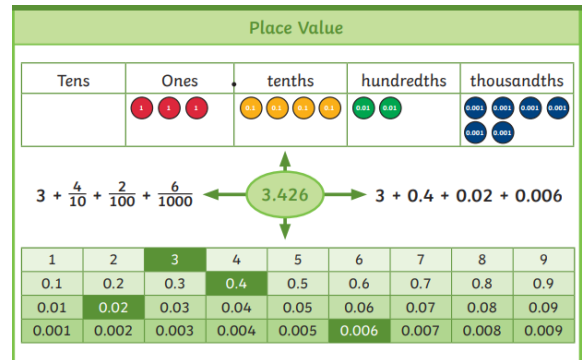

e.g. "Bow down before me peasant!" a voice boomed from above.

"Even the smallest people can make a difference," James whispered determinedly. "You will not continue this reign of terror!" he continued, his voice rising as he held his sword out confidently.
